

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

A patent for a broom holder has been granted to Edgar Gorman of Lyndonville.

A movement is on foot in Springfield for the removal of billboards in the business section.

A town clock, the gift of the late John Cameron, is being installed in the United Presbyterian church at Vergennes.

The Burlington Merchants' association has selected the week of October 12-17 for the semi-annual "merchants' week."

Miss Margaret Shults observed her 102d birthday anniversary Sept. 20 at her home in Dorset. A number of friends gathered at her home and gave her a birthday supper.

Mrs. G. E. Cushman of Springfield fell downstairs while visiting in Windsor, striking her head on a door, inflicting a scalp wound and injuring her left side and one knee.

The Burlington public schools opened today, three weeks later than usual, because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis. No new cases have appeared there for two weeks.

The committee of Brightbrook Hospital (aid association of St. Johnsbury, which had charge of a lunch concert at the fair, reports the sum of $164.25, to be applied towards the free bed fund.

Infantile paralysis has appeared in Milton and the graded school has been closed. There are two cases of the disease. The Albion schools have also closed, there being three cases there.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvis E. Comstock observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage last Saturday at their home in Middlebury. Mr. Comstock was born in Washington in 1831 and Mrs. Comstock (Miss Mary Severance) in Middlebury in 1833. Seven children were born to them and of these two survive.

On Friday morning nine young men were arrested on the charge of entering a barn on the Ballard farm, about two miles from White River Junction, and in some way setting fire to the hay stored therein. Saturday morning they were arraigned for trial before Justice A. J. Darrah. Two were allowed to go and the others were held for trial in Windsor county court. Failing to obtain bail, they were taken to Woodstock.

A rather bad accident occurred in Pawlet Wednesday evening, because of which the town may have a bill to settle. Dr. A. J. Greenwood, Charles H. Moore and O. E. Noyes of Springfield had been to Wallingford to the fair and were returning in a different way from what they went, the trip taking them through Pawlet. As they turned a curve to come upon a bridge, upon which, it is alleged, there were no lights to indicate danger, they ran off the highway into the river, the bridge being up and an abutment for the new bridge being in the middle of the river. Between this and the highway the automobile went, pinning the chauffeur into his seat and throwing the other two out of the car and against the stringers of the bridge. Mr. Moore's right wrist was broken and Mr. Noyes was made unconscious, though his injuries did not prove serious. A selectman of the town is said to have appeared on the scene and offered to settle, but the men did not accept. He alleged he was just about to put out lanterns when the accident occurred, which was 6:30 p. m. The car was somewhat demolished.

STORY OF A FISHING SIGN.

Windham Man's Poor Spelling Saves Him From Prosecution.

Brattleboro, Sept. 28.—If you had gone to all the trouble of having a nice, neat sign painted to the effect that people were not to fish in your brook, and when the town authorities had ordered that sign taken down merely because you had not stocked the brook with fish first, wouldn't you be just a little wrought up? And then if you had acquiesced to said authorities and had another sign printed, just as neat and as nice, to the effect that the public might fish in your brook all they pleased, and the same local authorities not only ordered that sign taken down, too, but also tried to bring you up in court for it, wouldn't you be real, roaring, snorting mad?

That is what happened to G. F. Carleton of Windham. Mr. Carleton is a farmer who owns a brook, or at least a part of one, for it flows through his territory. As there were plenty of fish in the brook, Mr. Carleton saw no reason why he should not have the fishing to himself, and posted a notice saying so, but the selectmen and the constable and a few other people in the town said him nay and decreed that he take it down, agreeable in all things, Mr. Carleton obeyed, but his wasted efforts riled him up considerably.

He thought over the episode and determined at last that if he couldn't have the fishing to himself, he would give everybody a chance. So he turned the sign over and printed another, which read: "Fish & be dam. Worms back of him & help him dig." But the authorities were implacable. They took offense at the wording of the sign and attempted to prosecute Carleton on the grounds of posting a profane notice. But Carleton's poor spelling saved him and the notice was declared not profane.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Civil Authority held in the city court room, city hall, city of Barre, Vt., on the evening of Thursday, October 1, 1914, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of considering and acting on the appeals lodged against the appraisal made by the assessors on the quadrennial list of the present year.

Dated at the city of Barre, Vt., this 24th day of September, 1914.

MRS. WOOD DIES AT LYNDONVILLE

Woman Shot by Hosea Ball Friday Night Dies of Wounds—Ball in Jail.

Lyndonville, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Perley Wood of St. Johnsbury, who was shot Friday night by Hosea Ball, died Saturday afternoon. Ball is recovering from two slight wounds on the throat, self-inflicted with a jackknife after the shooting. He is in the Caledonia county jail. Saturday afternoon State's Attorney W. A. Dutton and Sheriff W. H. Worthen conducted an inquest.

Ball will be held for a special session of the grand jury. He has declined to engage counsel.

Dr. B. H. Stone of Burlington, state pathologist, will make an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Wood to-day.

Ball and the dead woman were lifelong acquaintances. For several years they lived on farms in the same section of this township. Though he had always shown a fondness for her before her marriage two years ago, it is said she had never reciprocated. The authorities say, however, that the two had frequently met since her marriage.

Ball had not been informed of the woman's death and when seen did not seem to realize his position.

DEMOCRATS OPPOSE FUSION.

In a County Caucus Held Saturday at Brattleboro.

Brattleboro, Sept. 28.—A fight that developed in the Democratic caucus at Brattleboro Saturday night against fusion with the Progressive party in the county, as advocated by the faction headed by Fred W. and Rollin S. Childs, forced a ballot on eight of the ten delegates elected to the county convention. The Childs faction was beaten in every instance.

The delegates were instructed to appoint their own alternates. The vote ranged from 65 for the anti-Childs fusion faction to as low as 11 for the Childs delegates. The high-water mark of the Childs faction was 30.
